

What is the industrial make up of Rhode Island? Which industries will grow, or decline, in the future? Who can help me navigate services at the Department of Labor and Training?

Knowledge Is Power!

The Department of Labor and Training (DLT) wants to help you help your bottom line!

The second installment of our innovative Employer Education Series will answer your questions about Labor Market Information (LMI) and will introduce you to your own Employer Service Representative.

Come and Learn

About Labor Market conditions in Rhode Island · How your wages and benefits compare with your competitors · How RI's diverse population may affect your staffing · Who your personal Employer Service Representative is and how they can help you maneuver through DLT's wide range of programs and services

The next Employer Education Session is Tuesday, October 3rd from 9:00 AM to 11:00 AM, at the Department of Labor and Training in Cranston. Registration begins promptly at 8:30 AM.

Space is limited and pre-registration is required. Should the seminar be full at the time we receive your registration, we will notify you of an upcoming seminar you may attend in the future. Sign up today so you don't miss out!

Please type your responses on the form below, print it, and return it by fax at (401) 462-8766 or mail it to DLT, Labor Market Information 73-2 / Employer Education Series, 1511 Pontiac Avenue, Cranston, RI 02920.

Yes, I want to learn how the Department of Labor and Training can benefit my business!

Name of Attendee(s): _____

Name of Company: _____

Telephone Number: _____

E-Mail Address: _____

Please print clearly and respond on or before Monday, September 25, 2006
Other seminars may be found at www.dlt.ri.gov/EmployerSeminars.htm